

Buying accelerators has sharply diminishing returns

Failure rate $5e-3$ per node-day. The four oversubscription curves nearly coincide: at this configuration the spine is not what limits scaling.

The marginal accelerator eventually contributes nothing

Below zero, adding accelerators reduces useful capacity

